Tuition increase angers CUNY body

Board votes for $300 yearly boost over next four years Four CUNY students arrested in clash with police in quiet Gramercy neighborhood

PHOTOS: EMILY ANNE EPSTEIN/METRO

▶ Tenured CUNY professor Bill Crain is escorted out by security after he rushed the sitting board members yesterday, demanding an apology for arrests of students last week.

Students clashed with police yesterday after the CUNY Board of Trustees voted nearly unanimously to raise tuition 31 percent over the next four years.

Four protesters were arrested, police said. Two were charged with reckless endangerment, one for harassment and another for disorderly conduct. They were part of a group of nearly 500 angry students that decried the $300 tuition hike outside Baruch College in Gramercy.

"This city is expensive," said Meli Rodriguez, 18, a CUNY sophomore from Queens. "$300 for me is a lot of money."

She said the board is blind to the student's plight. "$300 for them is one dinner," Rodriguez said. "$300 for me is two months of groceries."

Despite student outcry, the board voted 15 to 1 to approve the tuition hike. Kafui Kouakou, the student trustee, was the sole "nay" vote.

The approval means undergrads would pay $6,330 tuition a year by 2015, compared with last year's tuition of $4,830.

Baruch College administrators prepared for the vote by shutting down the campus and canceling classes after 3 p.m., afraid of what bad news might bring.

Students marched up and down Lexington Avenue, angry about the vote, but not altogether surprised.

"It was going to happen no matter what," said Lindsey Freer, 30, an English graduate student from Astoria. "The point was to get as many people out here to publicly shame them."

Cost comparison

CUNY chancellor Matthew Goldstein said increased enrollment, state budget cuts and pending layoffs made it a necessity. Here's how CUNY's cost compares to other public community colleges, according to The College Board:

▶ Students march

- $4,928: Massachusetts Community Colleges
- $4,882: University of Wisconsin system
- $4,155: SUNY system
- $3,538: Maryland Community Colleges
- $3,490: Connecticut Community College System
- $3,070: City Colleges of Chicago

Apologize already!

NEW YORK. Bill Crain, a tenured psychology professor at the City University, rushed from his seat toward the board moments after the meeting began last night.

Wearing a sign around his neck that read "Apologize," he demanded that the board show remorse for arresting students.

Last Monday, students stormed a board of trustees discussion of the tuition hike and 15 were arrested. "I want them to apologize for beating students," Crain said. "The hike is a betrayal of this university. They will drive low-income students away." METRO/EAE

NEW YORK. Floating turkeys cost more to guard than one day of monitoring Occupy Wall Street protesters, according to a new report out yesterday.

According to the New York World, the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade cost $192,000 in police overtime last year — more than an average day of police guarding Occupy Wall Street.

The NYPD estimates that paying police officers overtime for Occupy Wall Street-related events adds up to $8 million so far.

That means the daily cost is about $129,000, under the expense for placing cops along the popular parade's route. METRO/AB

Wealth work pays: Greenwich trio hits record Conn. jackpot

Money managers turn $1 ticket into $254M Powerball win Lawyer: They plan to give much of it to charity

It's a riches-to-riches story for the 1-percent class: Three Greenwich, Conn., wealth mangers claimed a $254 million Powerball jackpot yesterday — and promised to donate much of the pot to charity.

Greg Skidmore, Brandon Lacoff and Tim Davidson announced yesterday that they won the quarter of a billion dollars.

The trio bought a $1 Quick Pick ticket at a Stamford, Conn., gas station on Nov. 2, with the winning numbers of 12-14-34-39-46, Powerball 36.

▶ Greg Skidmore

They formed a trust and hired a lawyer to help manage the money.

All three work at Belpointe, a firm that offers advice and services on wealth management, real estate and legal issues. The company manages $82 million, according to the New York Post.

The jackpot ranked as the largest ever won in Connecticut, dwarfing the previous record of $59.5 million in 2005.

According to the Belpointe website, Skidmore was a former member of the United States sailing team and hoped to go to the Olympics before joining the firm.

"It feels good," was all he would say at a press conference yesterday.

The manager of the gas station also reported glee at the winnings: Ranjit Singh's BP station will receive $100,000 for vending the winning ticket.

"We're really happy," Singh told reporters. "Christmas is a little early."

Donating it

The three will take home $103,586,824 after taxes, their lawyer said, although they say they plan to donate a significant amount to charity.

"This is going to benefit many people," said their attorney. They reportedly put together a trust to manage the money before announcing their big win.

Minorities arrested in city schools

An average of four students were arrested or ticketed each day during public summer school this year, according to an analysis released yesterday by the New York Civil Liberties Union.

About 94 percent of those students were black or Latino, and 83 percent were male, the group reported, after studying arrest records from July to September.

"The data raise concerns about black students being disproportionally arrested in the city's schools," said the NYCLU's executive director, Donna Lieberman.

Udi Ofer, an advocacy director at the NYCLU, said more police are stationed in schools than guidance counselors.

Chancellor Dennis Walcott said yesterday the Department of Education will take a close look at the data, pointing out that major crime in schools is down 49 percent since 2001.

Summer disorder

In the about 50 school days that spanned the summer session, there were 63 arrests and 182 summonses. Most students were ticketed for disorderly conduct.

Rep. Frank won't seek re-election

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Frank

Barney Frank announced his retirement from Congress yesterday, leaving fellow Democrats without their foremost defender of a landmark financial-regulation overhaul that Republicans and Wall Street groups want to repeal.

Elected to the House of Representatives in 1980, Frank was one of the first openly gay politicians to serve at a national level. In an era of carefully crafted political images, he has stood out for his rumpled demeanor and scathing wit.

"Trying to have a conversation with you would be like trying to argue with a dining room table," he told a detractor in 2009.

Frank, 71, said his decision was spurred by the difficulty of running for reelection in a newly redrawn district and his desire to spend more time writing and teaching. He has said to several aides that he did not want to die in Congress. REUTERS

Beginning to look a lot like Kindle

Amazon.com said yesterday it saw a surge in sales of its Kindle devices, helped by its new Kindle Fire tablet, on the crucial "Black Friday" shopping day after Thanksgiving.

Consumers bought four times as many Kindles on Black Friday as they did on the same day last year, when the company sold only e-readers, the largest Internet retailer reported.

The $199 Fire was the best-selling product on Amazon.com on Black Friday and it has been the top seller in the eight weeks since it was launched, the company added.

The Kindle Fire was the best-selling tablet in Target stores on Black Friday, Nik Nayar, vice president of merchandising at Target, said in a statement. Target sells several tablets, including the market-leading iPad from Apple Inc. REUTERS

The new Kindle Fire is a crucial part of Amazon's effort to sell more digital products such as e-books, apps, video games, music and movies. The company is selling the tablet in more than 16,000 retail stores.

Counterfeit sellers shut down on Web

WASHINGTON. Some 150 websites allegedly selling counterfeit goods including shoes, purses, sunglasses and sports jerseys have been seized, authorities said yesterday, coinciding with the Cyber Monday holiday shopping day.

U.S. authorities in the past few days slapped notices on the seized websites — with names like www.pumaoutlets.net — in a bid to thwart sales of the counterfeit goods.

"Most of the actual counterfeiters and criminals involved are overseas."
JOHN MORTON, HEAD OF CUSTOMS ENFORCEMENT AGENCY

However, authorities say they face difficulties prosecuting the sellers of the fake goods because they are typically overseas, predominantly in China. REUTERS

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

'Bob Miley' or 'Lyin' Miley'?

Miley Cyrus

Hannah Bong-tana, it's time to come clean.

After it surfaced during the weekend via The Daily that Miley Cyrus was presented with a Bob Marley-shaped cake at her 19th birthday party at the Roosevelt Hotel in L.A., and then quipped, "You know you're a stoner when friends make you a Bob Marley cake — you know you smoke way too much f—in' weed," she is now retracting it, saying the video was all a "joke."

Her rep tells TMZ that Miley was just joshing about the cake and that the Bob Marley reference was because her friend Kelly Osbourne has been calling her "Bob Miley" since a film of her ripping a huge bong hit leaked last year. Cyrus claimed it was salvia, a legal herb, and not marijuana, in the bong.

"You know you're a stoner when friends make you a Bob Marley cake — you know you smoke way too much f—in' weed." CYRUS, 19

Cyrus's rep says she is not a pothead.

Pfft. Right. Because non-stoners are known for their love of all things Bob Marley. My 74-year-old Republican mother has a giant Marley tapestry hanging in her living room just because it matches her sofa.

Theron once had to wear glasses

Charlize Theron wants us to believe she was once ugly.

Speaking of people totally lying, Charlize Theron, who is now on the promotional circuit for her new film "Young Adult," is trying to make us believe that she wasn't beautiful nor popular in high school (how many "pffts" can I fit into one column?).

"I wore really nerdy glasses because I was blind as could be and the boys didn't like [me]," she tells People.

Listen, Hollywood movies and actresses: Glasses don't hide the fact that women are 5-foot-10, thin and gorgeous. You can take off the glasses, but you can't take off the ugly.

Pippa scores a book deal

Royal sister-in-law Pippa Middleton has secured a nearly $600,000 advance to write a party planning book, according to the Mail on Sunday. An auction for the socialite's project had reportedly been going on for weeks, with publisher Michael Joseph, an imprint of Penguin, coming out on top. "It will be about entertaining and how to throw the perfect party," a source says. "It's not just about being the perfect hostess — it will also include recipes and information about how to host different types of events." The book, which Middleton is reportedly writing without the help of a ghostwriter, is due out in time for the 2012 holiday season.

Angelina Jolie, funeral director?

Angelina Jolie says the woman all the tabloids write about isn't her. "I don't see those things. I don't know who they are but I assume they're not me. They're not who I am. They're not what I spend my day caring about. I find them quite shallow and often quite wrong," she says tells "60 Minutes." Jolie also reveals that aside from acting, she was interested at one point in becoming a funeral director. "It sounds like this very strange, eccentric, dark thing to do," she says. "That was going to be my path."

Willis joins society

Tallulah Willis, the youngest daughter of Bruce Willis and Demi Moore, is officially part of high society. The 17-year-old was introduced at Le Bal des Debutantes at the Hotel Crillon in Paris over the weekend, according to Us Weekly. Tallulah was joined by her older sisters, Rumer and Scout, and her father, while Moore was noticeably absent.

Anne Hathaway is engaged

The new Catwoman Anne Hathaway is engaged to boyfriend Adam Shulman, her spokesman said yesterday. The spokesman provided no details beyond confirming the engagement, per Reuters. Hathaway, 29, has been dating Shulman, an actor and jewelry designer, since 2008. Rumors of their engagement swirled throughout the weekend when photos of the two surfaced with Hathaway sporting a giant ring.

A novel lesson: Do whatever feels write

Sam writes a novel

SAMANTHA SWEENEY
TWITTER: @SAMWRITESANOVEL

ARTISTOCK.COM

▶ If you really want your characters to fall in love on the moon, it's your novel to write.

Less than 5,000 words keep me from becoming a true novelist at midnight Wednesday. Without NaNoWriMo, I probably would've never written so much. The added pressure of a deadline was the real pusher, and I suggest that young writers give themselves a time limit and see how much they can write. I'm going to record how much I write every 30 days and try to beat it in the next 30! Here are a few other lessons NaNoWriMo taught me.

▶ To be a writer, one must constantly be writing. This was the most important lesson of a full month of nonstop work: Keep going.

▶ Looking to others' work — as I did when I was frustrated and hit a creative drought — has its place, but so does simply writing through the tough, tiring moments. Also, typing out thoughts half-asleep can produce some great stuff!

▶ Take criticism; but if you feel good about a bit of your story someone else doesn't, keep it in there. Not everyone understands your style. But also realize that your favorite part with the moonlight kiss on the beaches of Fiji may not work in a story taking place in space. Or maybe it will. If it feels right, keep it as a really expensive, romantic astronaut honeymoon. You could even title the book, "Honey, Moon." Maybe I'll start writing that on Dec. 1.

MIRANDA KERR

● The Victoria's Secret bombshell gets in shape with maca powder, bee pollen and Sunwarrior protein
● What else keeps her going

▶ Kerr walks the runway during the 2011 Victoria's Secret Fashion Show, which airs tonight at 10 p.m. on CBS.

For the first time in her five years of walking down the runway as one of the Victoria's Secret Angels — watch them strut tonight when the show airs at 10 p.m. on CBS — Australian bombshell Miranda Kerr got the honor of wearing the $2.5 million Fantasy Treasure Bra. And that's just months after giving birth to her first baby with husband Orlando Bloom. We ask her the question every woman wants to know.

You lost the baby weight ridiculously fast. Can you give us a breakdown of your daily diet?

Everyday is different, but I like to start the day with a fresh green juice with kale, spinach, cucumber, beets and lemon. Then half an hour later, I have a power smoothie which has Sunwarrior protein powder, chia seeds, maca powder, raw cacao, bee pollen, goji berries, noni juice, Vitamineral Green and coconut water. Then an hour after that I'll have oatmeal or eggs. That's my three-course power breakfast. For lunch I might have some grilled fish with goat cheese or baby spinach salad and olives. Sometimes I'll have a sweet potato. At dinner, I'll have a lentil soup and maybe some chicken. And I love to have my salads with avocado, feta and spinach.

It sounds like a lot of careful maintenance. What does your workout regimen look like?

I've been practicing yoga for over 12 years. After I had the baby, I started doing Pilates. That was really helpful. Three weeks leading up to the VS show, I start working out five times a week using a resistance band and leg weights.

Is the Fantasy Treaure Bra heavy?

No, it's not so heavy. But my wings are really heavy.

Besides the $2.5 million bra, what's the biggest difference between walking Victoria's Secret and a high-fashion show such as Balenciaga?

The great thing with Victoria's Secret is they really encourage us girls to interact with the audience and show a bit of personality, so it's a totally different thing for sure. The Victoria's Secret show is quite a theatrical performance. I love to be in the moment and feel the music.

Would you know if it's whooping cough?

Last year several states saw huge outbreaks of pertussis, the bacterial disease that causes whooping cough. It can be nearly impossible to diagnose, especially in its early stages. Because it is particularly serious for babies, and 70 percent of infants who come down with it are exposed to it from a family member, make sure you — and any adult who cares for your baby — get the Tdap booster. If your child does become sick, Parents advisor Ari Brown, M.D., author of "Baby 411," says to watch for these warning signs that may mean he has whooping cough.

▶ Your child's doctor can prescribe antibiotics for whooping cough.

WAVEBREAK MEDIA

▶ He has bad coughing fits: Whooping cough is characterized by short, frequent coughs that are so severe your child may have difficulty catching his breath at the end of a fit. He'll try to get more air by sharply gasping, or he may "whoop." He might also turn very red while coughing, or even vomit.

▶ He's not getting better: Call your pediatrician if you're concerned or if his cough lasts longer than a week. If it turns out to be whooping cough, your doctor will prescribe antibiotics to shorten the amount of time he's contagious. To help ease coughing spells, make sure your child gets plenty of rest and fluids, and use a humidifier in his bedroom.

Basic respect: Common sense

RE: "EARN RESPECT, REP. BACHMANN": I disagree with John Demerjian's assertion that Rep. Michelle Bachmann has to earn his respect so as not to be called a vile name. I was taught that each person is entitled to basic human respect — but I guess liberals don't believe that. As far as criticizing Mr. Obama, that is her right under the First Amendment. I would hope he is capable enough that he doesn't need the Roots and their ilk degrading an opponent in order to win re-election.
WAYNE SARGENT, MANVILLE, NJ

More liberal double standards: What would happen had Jimmy Fallon and the Roots given Michelle Obama or Nancy Pelosi the same treatment they did Michele Bachmann? There would be boycotts, demands for firings, and accusations of sexism. Liberals complain about Bachmann not respecting Barack Obama, but where were those same liberals when it was George W. Bush in the White House?
ROCCO LORE, VIA E-MAIL

Um, actually Michele Bachman is a lying, bigoted [person]! Good for the Roots for playing the song. The Roots will go down as one of the most awesome late night bands in history.
LYDIA EDWARDS, VIA E-MAIL

Time to vote: All must go!

The so-called supercommittee couldn't find any spending cuts? What about foreign aid? What about these very costly wars? What about the billions given to the America-hating U.N.? What about the socialist government departments like education, housing, and energy? What this country desperately needs is better congressmen who will uphold the constitution. Hopefully citizens will fulfill that need next election.
FRANK ST GEORGE, EAST ROCKAWAY

Rich don't earn their own way

It's obvious: The superrich don't work for the money they get and call theirs; they hire others to do the work for them. Profit from underpaying workers, overcharging customers and government subsidies are automatically credited to their accounts. These profits are earned, but not received, by those who actually did the work. Redistribution, from those who got but didn't earn — to those who earned but didn't get — would be justice.
MARVIN MILLER, VIA E-MAIL

Hotels with local flavor

Fodor's named the nation's best hotels Here's where to go to experience the region from your room

Choosing where to stay is one of the most important decisions to make when planning a trip. Fodor's editors recently published its top picks of hotels around the world that represent the best of their locales, including these getaways right here in the U.S. that let you experience the flavor of your destination without leaving your room.

▶ The rustic (but smartly furnished) Los Poblanos Historic Inn & Organic Farm.

Post Ranch Inn Big Sur, Calif.

This spa, built with an eye toward harmony with nature, is rumored to be set on an ancient power spot. Three years ago, the Ranch built 10 new buildings. Some are cantilevered off the 1,200-foot oceanside cliff and others perched on stilts. Besides stunning views, the ranch offers a myriad of mind-and-spirit activities — many reflecting Big Sur's laid-back, creative character.

Sundance Resort Sundance, Utah

Against the backdrop of 11,750-foot Mount Timpanogos, Robert Redford's 5,000-acre ski resort and retreat features cottages, restaurants and creativity-nurturing spaces connected by winding pathways that blend elegantly into the scene with reclaimed timber and locally quarried stone. Try hiking or skiing. Or slow the tempo for a pottery class or a pint at the Owl Bar.

Triple Creek Ranch Darby, Mont.

This remote retreat in Montana's Bitterroot National Forest emphasizes truly getting away from it all (many cabins are a half-mile or more from the main lodge, and your nearest neighbors are inquisitive elk). The intensive weekends focusing on photography, horsemanship, cooking or wine are especially noteworthy.

Waimea Plantation Cottages Kauai, Hawaii

These charming little pastel bungalows tucked tidily into coconut grove on the island's sunny side are a far cry from the rest of the island's hyper-manicured resorts. And that's exactly where Aston Waimea's charm lies. Peace and serenity are the order of the day here — not hard to achieve with a long, undeveloped beach right next door. Pop into the onsite Grove Cafe for a sampling of brews.

Los Poblanos Historic Inn & Organic Farm Albuquerque, N.M.

Down a long private driveway framed by soaring cottonwood trees — and some 25 acres of organic produce and lavender — this rustic but smartly furnished inn feels worlds away from downtown Albuquerque (which is actually just four miles south). Territorial-style adobe buildings and guest rooms capture the regional vernacular with wrought-iron accents, kiva fireplaces, beam ceilings and colorful Mexican-tile bathrooms.

Down and out on the bayou

Giants don't even show up as they are blown out by Saints ◗ Defense allows over 500 yards ◗ New York drops to 6-5, one game back of Dallas

49	SAINTS (8-3)
24	GIANTS (6-5)

RONALD MARTINEZ/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Drew Brees dives into the end zone on an eight-yard touchdown run in the second half.

They never had a chance.

Sometimes a loss is close. Sometimes painfully so. Sometimes if you got just one more possession. Not last night in New Orleans.

The Giants were outplayed from the word go as they lost 49-24 to the Saints, dropping them to a game back of Dallas in the NFC East.

The Saints received the opening kickoff and marched down the field, but came up short on fourth down when they tried a fake field goal. They continued to move the ball easily on their second drive though, going 80 yards in 4:35 for a touchdown and lead they would never relinquish.

New Orleans scored touchdowns on four straight possessions — the last two of the first half and first two of the second half — to make it a laugher down the stretch. Drew Brees finished with five touchdowns (one rushing).

The Giants will host the defending champion Packers next week with a .500 record on the line.

MARK OSBORNE
mark.osborne@metro.us

What went wrong ...

1 Hate to say I told you so — Everyone and their mother knew stopping Jimmy Graham would be paramount. But the Giants knew they'd have trouble with so many linebacker injuries. So it was no surprise Graham had a touchdown and XX yards.

2 Moore is more — The weapons at Drew Brees's disposal are downright unfair. You cover Marques Colston or Darren Sproles or Devery Henderson and you still get burned by someone else. It was Lance Moore's turn last night. Moore had two touchdowns in the first half.

3 Quick answer — The Giants drove the field for a touchdown coming out of the half to make it 21-10. It was time for the defense to step up and give the Giants some momentum. They didn't. The Saints marched the ball down the field and Drew Brees ran the ball in to make it 28-10. METRO/MO

Meyer named Buckeyes coach

It's fair to wonder whether Urban Meyer wouldn't fit better as a boxer.

The former Florida coach unretired just one year after stepping away and announced the new head coach at Ohio State yesterday.

Meyer won two titles with the Gators before stepping down to focus on his health and family. Now he'll be focusing on Michigan.
